

Abstract of the Disclosure

The present invention is a system for hooking a trailer to a towing vehicle. The system has a winch attached to the trailer and a cable that wraps around the ball hitch and is attached to a plate on the trailer. By spacing the cable wide at the plate on the trailer and 5 narrow at the ball of the hitch, the trailer is automatically adjusted to position the tongue of the trailer to center it on the ball hitch.